The drive towards real-time business is making it more important than ever for companies to streamline processes of all levels of complexity and predictability.

TIBCO Software Inc. Business Process Management (BPM) solutions enable businesses to improve the way employees, customers, partners, enterprise applications, and Web Services work together to execute the processes and transactions that define a business. TIBCO BPM™ solutions enable this by providing business users the ability to create, monitor, and modify process definitions, and by automating the execution of those processes and workflows.

Automation Plus Workflow
In addition to managing the activity of people, TIBCO BPM solutions enable the seamless execution of processes that include Web Services, applications integrated with the TIBCO™ integration platform, and components accessed via an extensive library of built-in interfaces such as C, C++, OLE, and Java.

Giving Control to Business Users
The TIBCO graphical process designer enables business analysts to quickly and easily model and modify processes without programming. The process designer includes pre-defined business process rules that assist in the rapid development of workflow processes. The designer also saves process information in templates so it can be reused elsewhere in the organization, reducing deployment time and expenses.
Dynamic Process Management
TIBCO BPM solutions allow the dynamic management and modification of business processes, enabling companies to quickly adapt to changing resources and customer requirements.

All Systems Working from the Same Data
Effective process management relies on the synchronization of information between systems. With unmatched experience in real-time event-driven communications TIBCO ensures that every system is working with up-to-the-minute information.

Process Analysis and Optimization
TIBCO BPM solutions provide tools for executives to monitor processes in real-time, enabling the rapid identification and resolution of process inefficiencies.
